The use of our website

1. No Guarantees

This website and the information provided on it are offered as is and as available. Although Schiphol Commercial B.V. ('SCBV') does its utmost to include accurate and complete information on this website, SCBV gives no explicit or implied guarantee of its completeness and accuracy, therefore no rights can be derived from the prices, objects and other information mentioned on this website. Nor does SCBV guarantee that this website will be available without interruption or delay.

2. No Liability

In visiting this website you agree that SCBV is not liable for any direct or indirect loss resulting from the use of this website or the information on it. Likewise, SCBV accepts no liability for the services offered by third parties via this website.

3. Links

This website can contain links or referrals to third-party websites over which SCBV has no authority or control. SCBV is not responsible or liable for the content of such third-party websites or the links that they may contain.

4. Intellectual Property Rights

All intellectual property rights relating to the information on this website, including but not limited to the materials, pictures, illustrations, names, logos, brands and other distinguishing marks belong to SCBV or other Schiphol Group companies or possible licensors. The availability of this information implies no licence for the reproduction and/or distribution of this information. Such actions are not permitted without prior written consent from SCBV or the relevant third party except in the case of legally permissible actions such as printing or downloading information in this website for personal, non-commercial use. It is not allowed to frame this site.

5. Responsible Disclosure notification

We want all legal entities belonging to the Royal Schiphol Group to be legally established in the Netherlands to protect online as well as possible. Have you discovered a weak spot in our IT systems? We would like to hear this from a Responsible Disclosure notification. This helps you to make our digital environment more secure. Thanks in advance for your help!
